Dedication

TO SAINT PETER:

* The Prince of the Apostles

* The Keeper of the Keys

* Who prayed, "Lord Save Us"

TO SAINT PAUL:

* The Apostle of the Gentiles

* Ardent Defender of the Faith

* Who prayed, "Lord do not lay this sin against them"

To the Patrons of the Trojans for whom our school and parish are named we dedicate this volume of The Trojan.

"The Building Up Of The Body Of Christ"

"And all work in mutual collaboration . . . for the more perfect building up of the whole Body."

The visible growth of the Mystical Body in our parish began when the first building was raised in its boundaries by our grandparents.

Today we are again viewing the visible growth as we watch the construction of the new Sts. Peter and Paul High School.

But the internal growth reaches back two thousand years as His Holiness, Pius XII, wrote in his Encyclical, "Mystici Corporis Christi":

" . . . the Divine Redeemer began the building of the mystical temple of the Church when by His preaching He announced His precepts," and again, "But after Christ's glorification on the Cross, His Spirit is communicated to the Church in an abundant outpouring, so that she, and her single members may become daily more and more like to our Saviour."

Through its pages, this book will endeavor to portray the daily efforts of the Priests, Sisters, and Students of Sts. Peter and Paul High School in sharing in the "Building Up of the Body of Christ."

The Dream Of '51

An architect's drawing of the new high school from which the Class of '51 had hopes of being graduated. Because of a steel shortage the building was delayed; so the honor is bequeathed to the Class of '52.

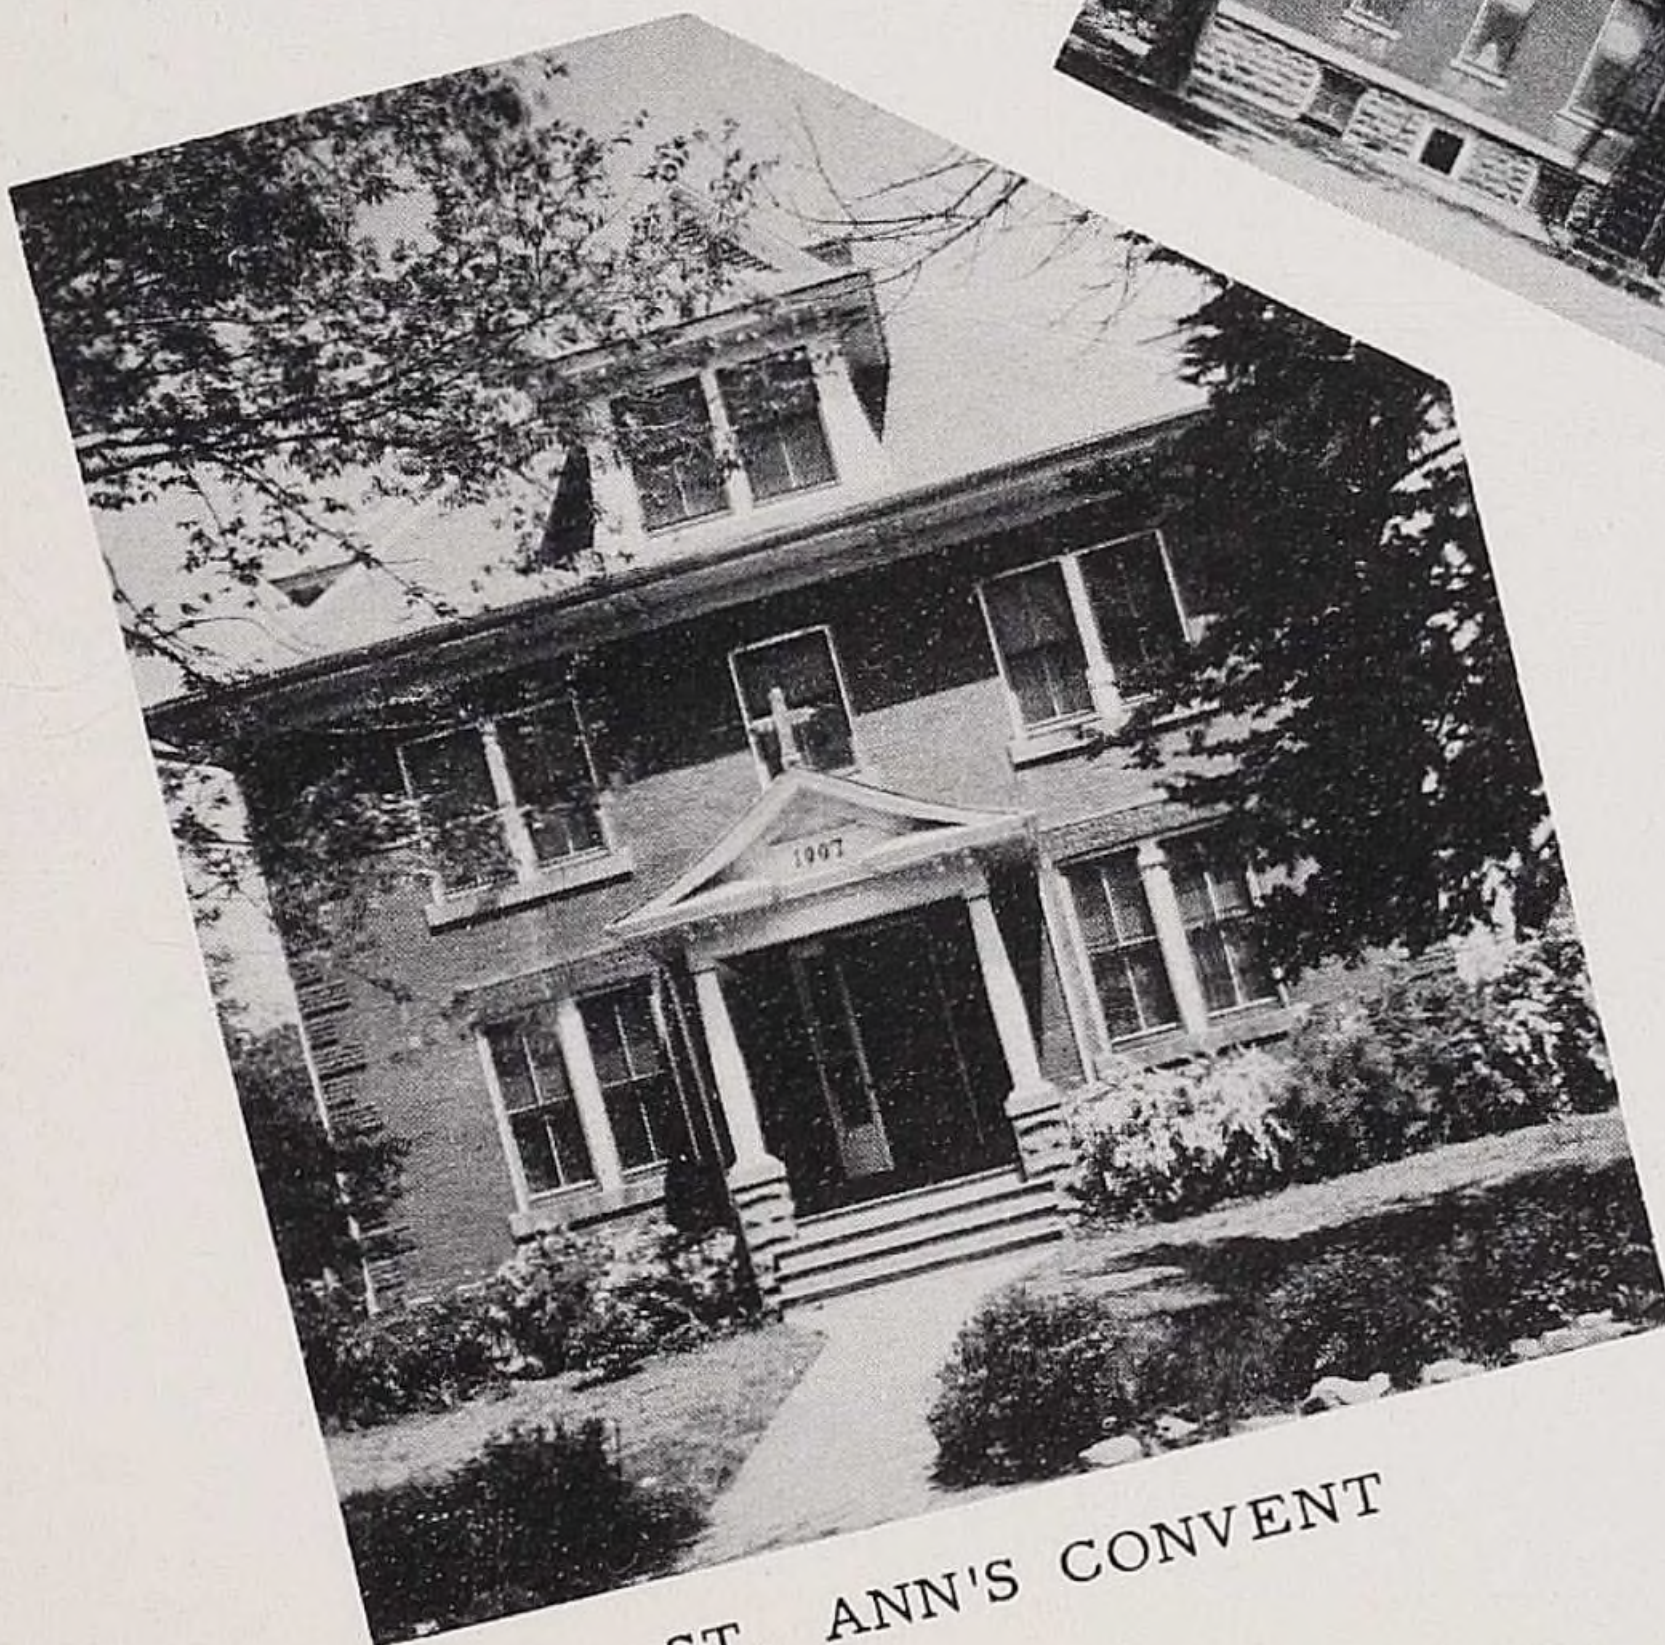

From this faithful building this year's senior class is the thirty-first to be graduated. The pictures of the Class of '51 will probably be the last to be hung in the hall of old S. C. H.

THE OLD STS. PETER AND PAUL

A familiar sight to all students of Saints Peter and Paul School is the "Sisters' home."

ST. ANN'S CONVENT

"That those who exercise sacred power in this Body are its first and chief members, must be maintained uncompromisingly. It is through them, commissioned by the Divine Redeemer Himself that Christ's apostolate as teacher, king, priest, is to endure.." Pius XII

PAX

The commission for building up the Body of Christ, received by the Apostles, has caused chosen men of every age to take up the work of teaching, governing, and leading men to holiness.

Today in Seneca, in our age, men who have accepted Christ's command, take His place in our lives and share our burdens and joys.

Sons of the Father of Monasticism, Benedict, they come to us with zeal for their King, and reverence for their Master, from St. Benedict's Abbey, Atchison, Kansas.

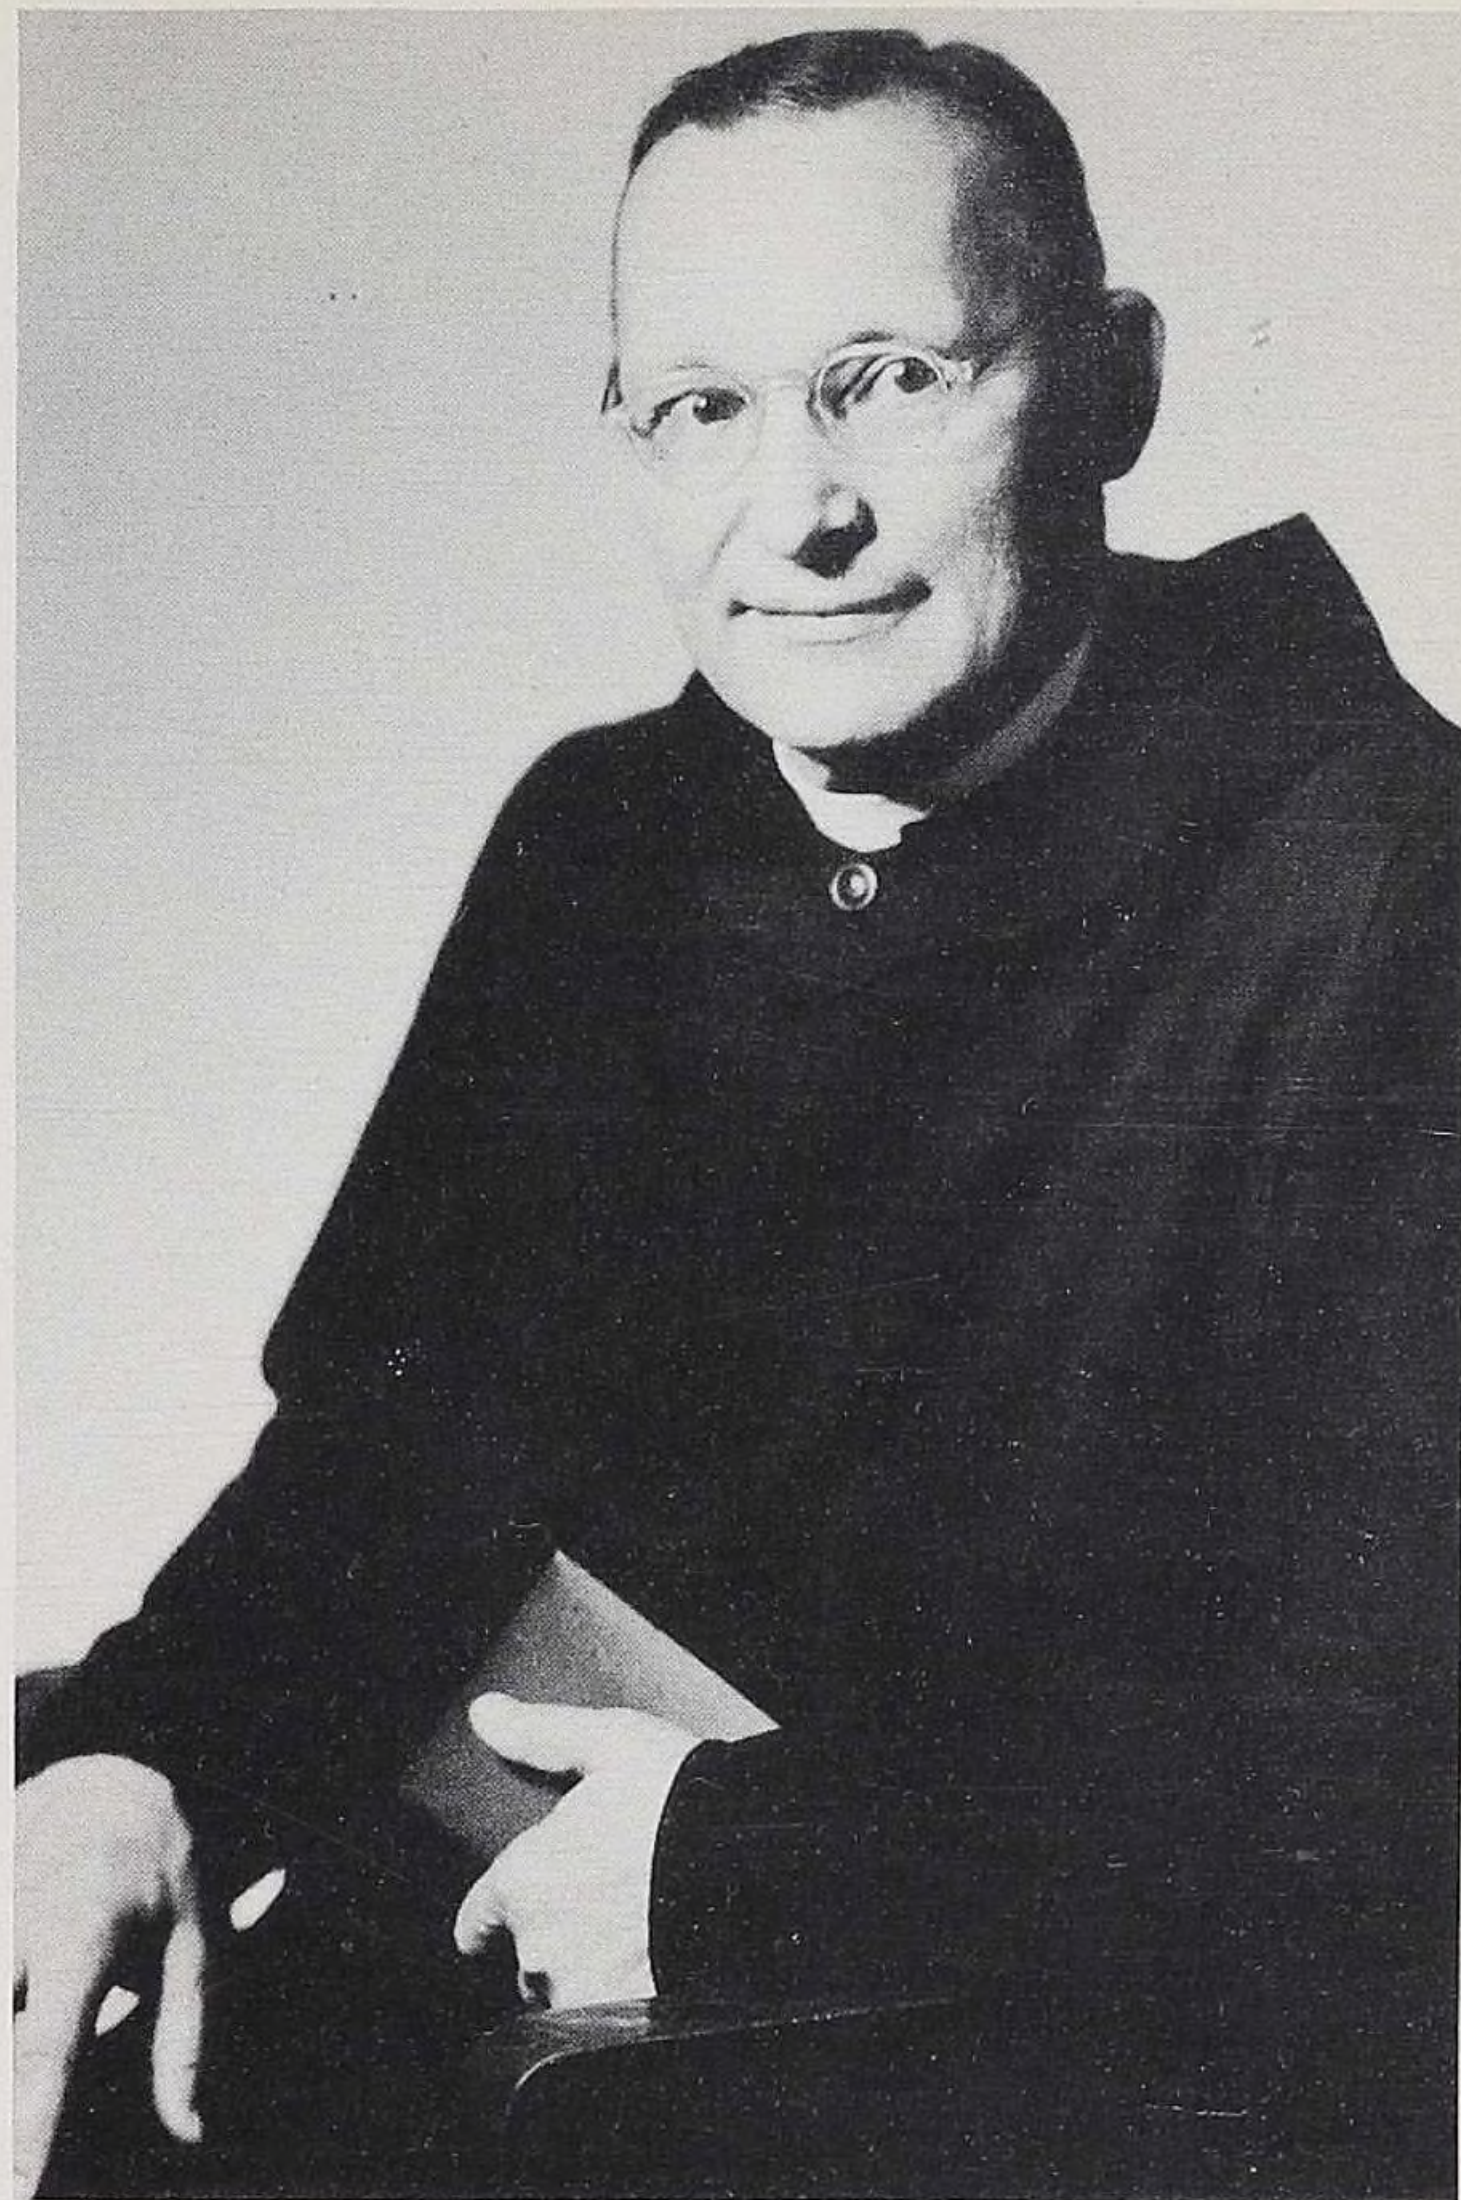

By word and by work they bring into our lives that "Pax" which Christ bestowed upon His Apostles, and exemplify the "Ora et Labora" of the Benedictine Rule.

SCHOLASTICA

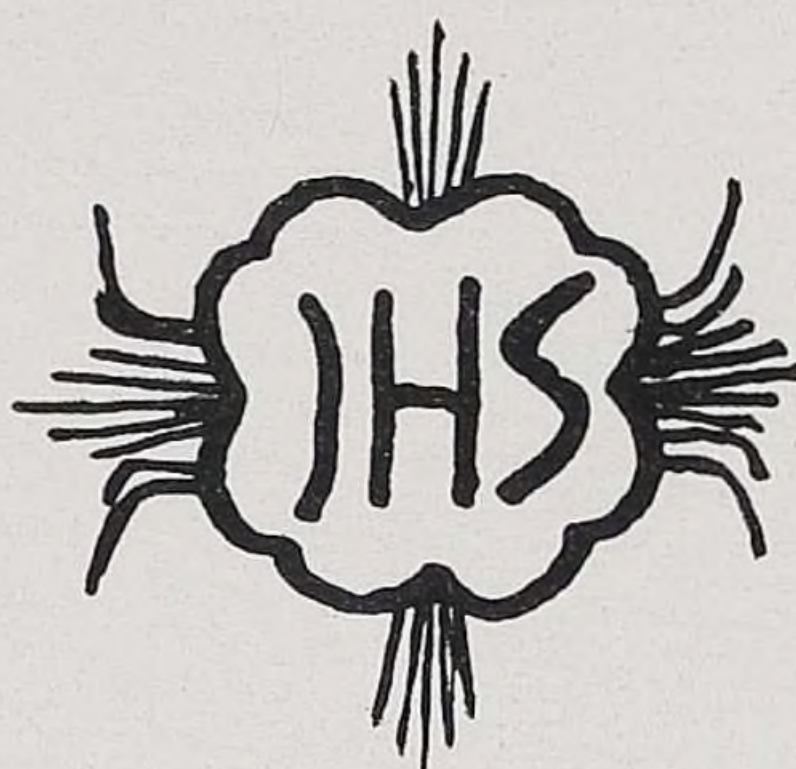

Since Scholastica, Benedict's saintly twin sister, whose soul he saw ascend into heaven in the form of a dove, undertook to live under her brother's Holy Rule, consecrated virgins through the centuries have striven to follow his precepts and to help the Members of Christ's Body by praying, teaching, nursing, and performing other charitable works. Among these are the Benedictine Sisters of Mount St. Scholastica Convent, Atchison, Kansas, who teach at Sts. Peter and Paul High School.

With us this year were:

STEPPING

STONES

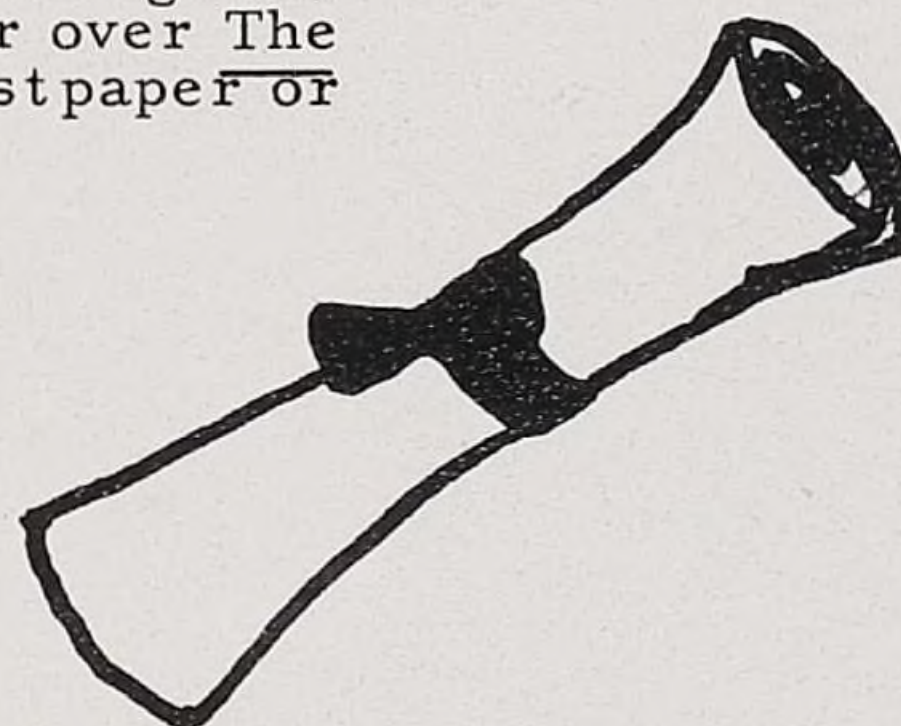

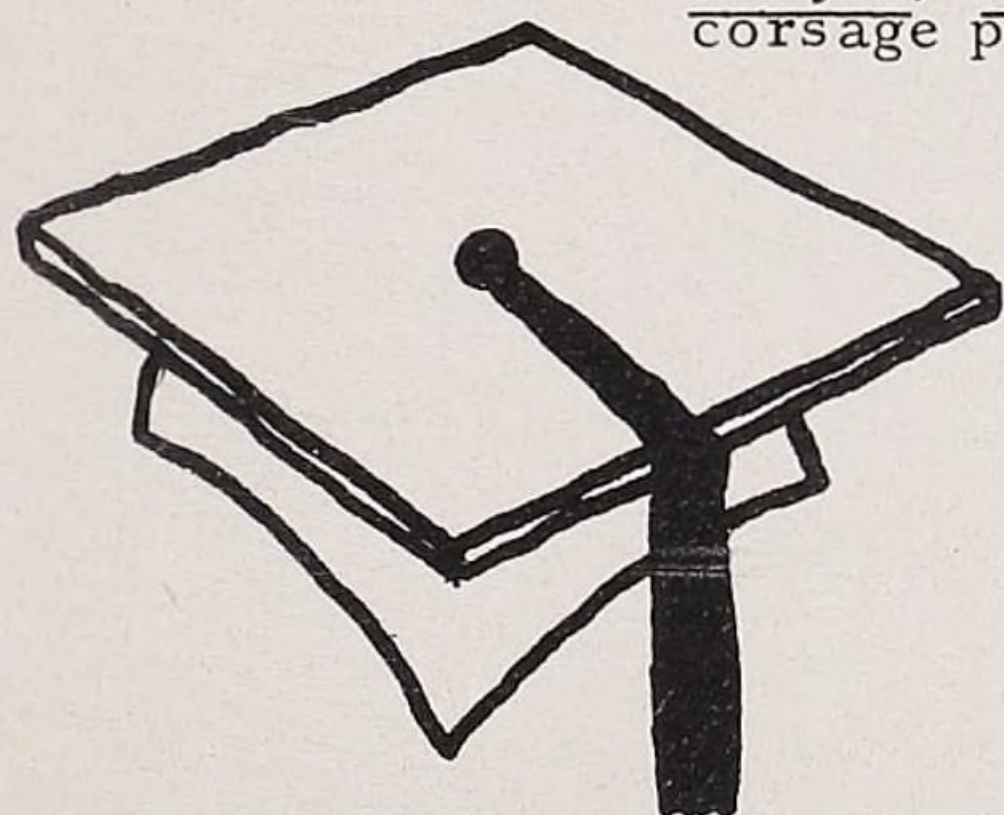

We step with old Seneca Catholic High, in the light of faith, to a graduated stone. She, onto a new foundation close to the house of God; we, her scholars, into a world of trials and fortune.

We treasure the honor of being the last seniors to participate in the benefits of the old Iron Stairs where we carried our worries and joys. Its steps are dented with the footprints of the past, which led us to this graduation. We are saddened by the thought of leaving, but gladdened by the thought of our accomplishments, the future in a paradoxical world of joy and sorrow, and eternity awaiting.

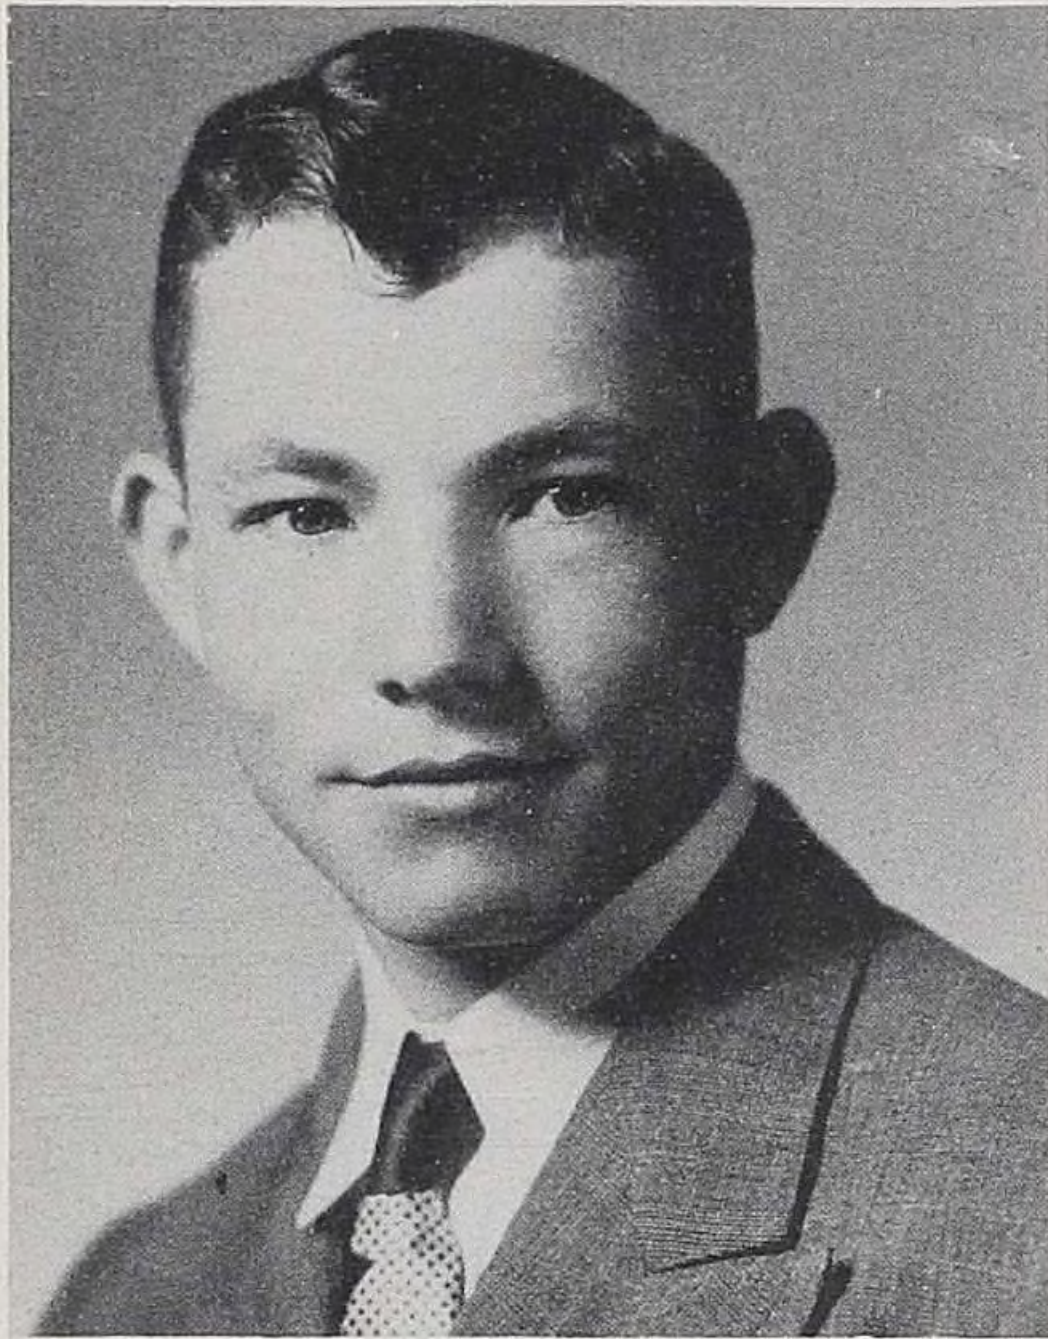

With an informal fare well we wish to say "thank you" to those who sent us to school, and to those who taught us, played, and prayed with us.

In a few years we shall rummage through our keepsake box and smile or shed a tear over The Trojan, The Optimist or perhaps a test paper or corsage pin.

So far we have known no life but the life of a member of christian family and of a Christian school. With the help of God we will strive to work hard and constantly as members of the Mystical Body of Christ for the upbuilding and increase of this body.

Singing

For nothing more glorious, nothing nobler, nothing surely more ennobling can be imagined than to belong to the Holy, Catholic,
Apostolic, and Roman Church. In that Church we become members of one Body that deserves all veneration, are guided by one supremely eminent Head;
in it we are filled with one divine Spirit; in it we are nourished during our earthly exile with one doctrine and one bread of Angels, until at last we enter into the one, unending blessedness of heaven.

WE PRAY

Sts. Peter and Paul Church in all its grandeur invites every Trojan to Mass each day.

The Rev. Edmund Pusch, O. S. B. sings the Preface during the Mass in honor of the Holy Ghost on the opening day of school. The Rev. Germain Kuckleman, O. S. B. is the deacon and the Rev. Michael Carroll, O. S. B. is the subdeacon.

Jerry Huerter and Jack Luebbe, juniors; Lyle Strathman and Bob Sack, sophomores, lead the Forty Hours procession.

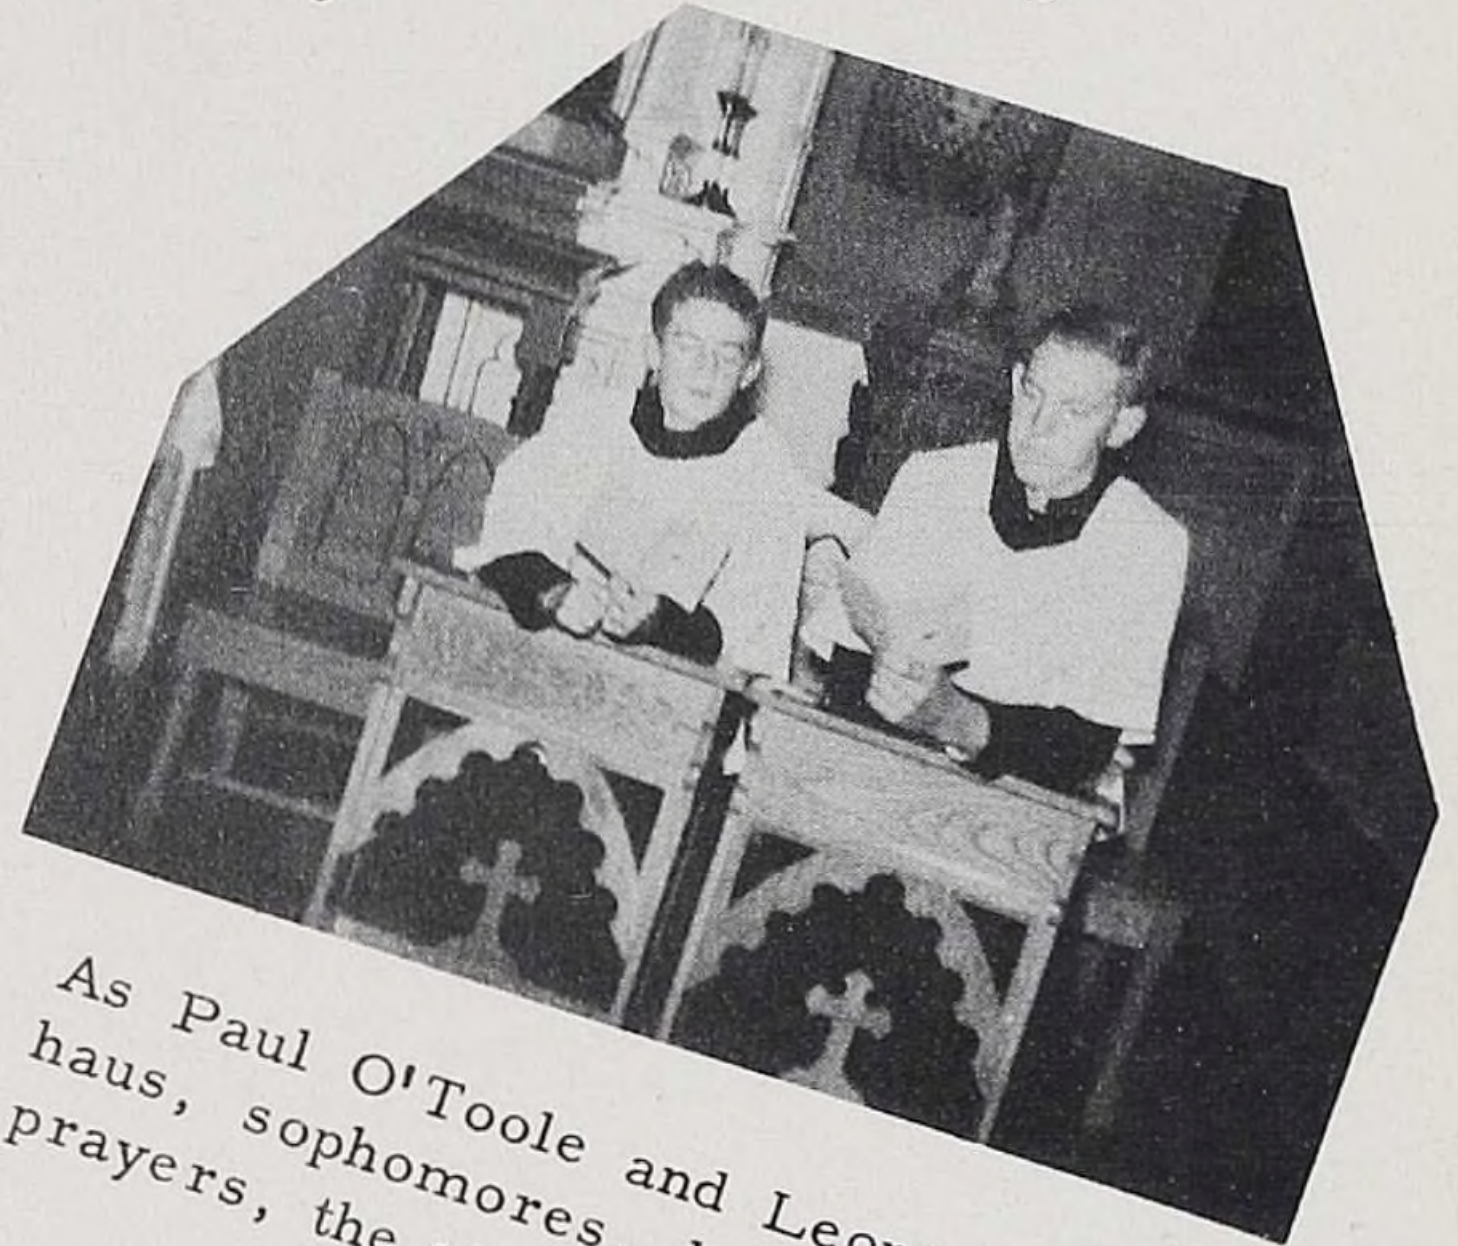

The Rev. Robert O'Leary, visiting missionary from Mississippi, takes life easy before his talk to the students.

Tuesdays and Thursdays At Mass On Week Days

Monday and Friday

Donnie Lauer and Roger Huerter, sophomores, read the Proper parts of the Mass.

As Paul O'Toole and Leonard Up-haus, sophomores, lead the Mass prayers, the students answer.

Feast Days

Wednesdays

Reciting the rosary at a weekday Mass are seniors Kenneth Conley, John McGreevy, George Gress, and Lou Lueb, Margy Henry, and Laverne Lierz.

One, Holy, Catholic, Apostolic

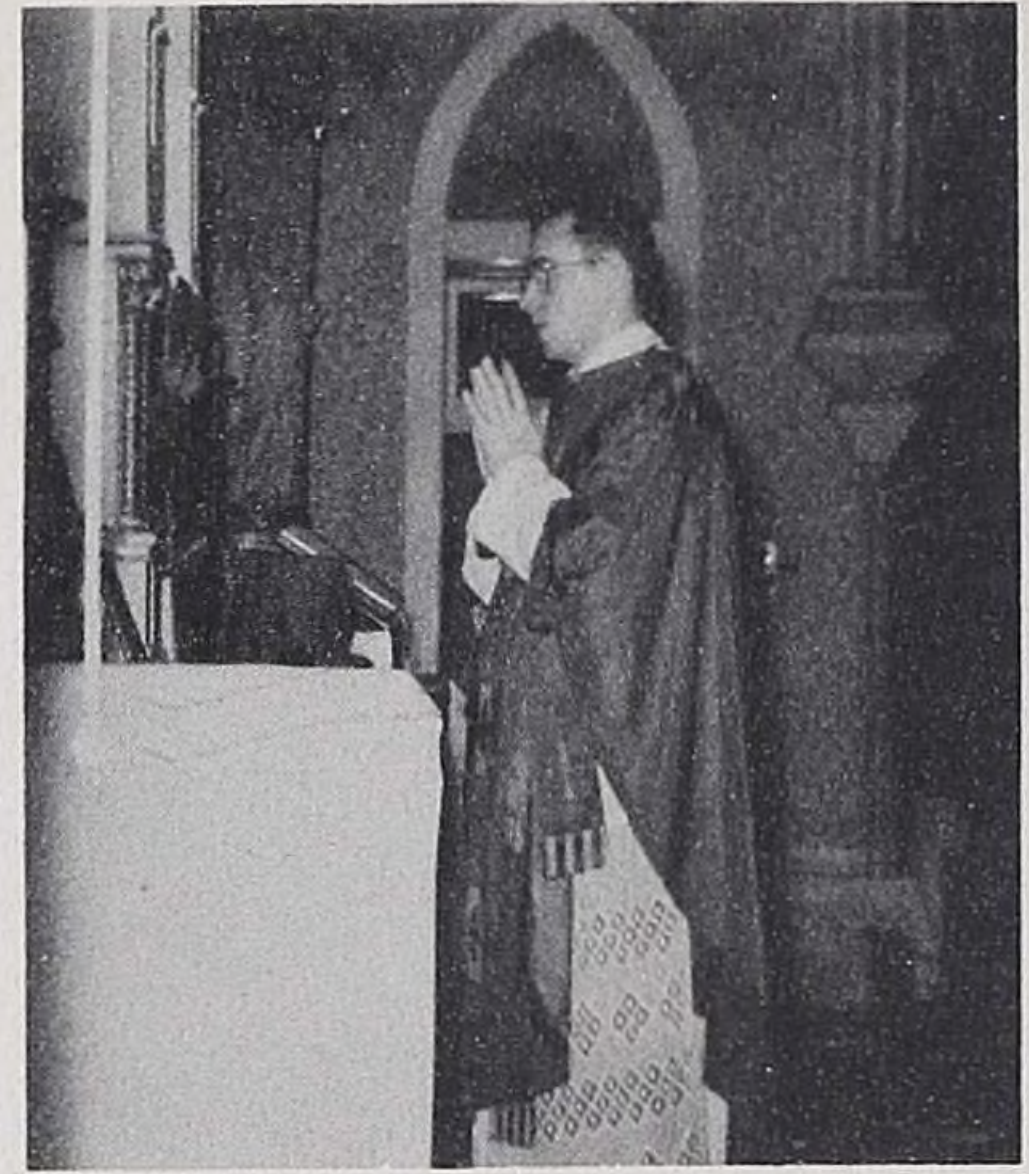

"We should give honor before the eyes of all to the beauty, grandeur, the glory of Mother Church."

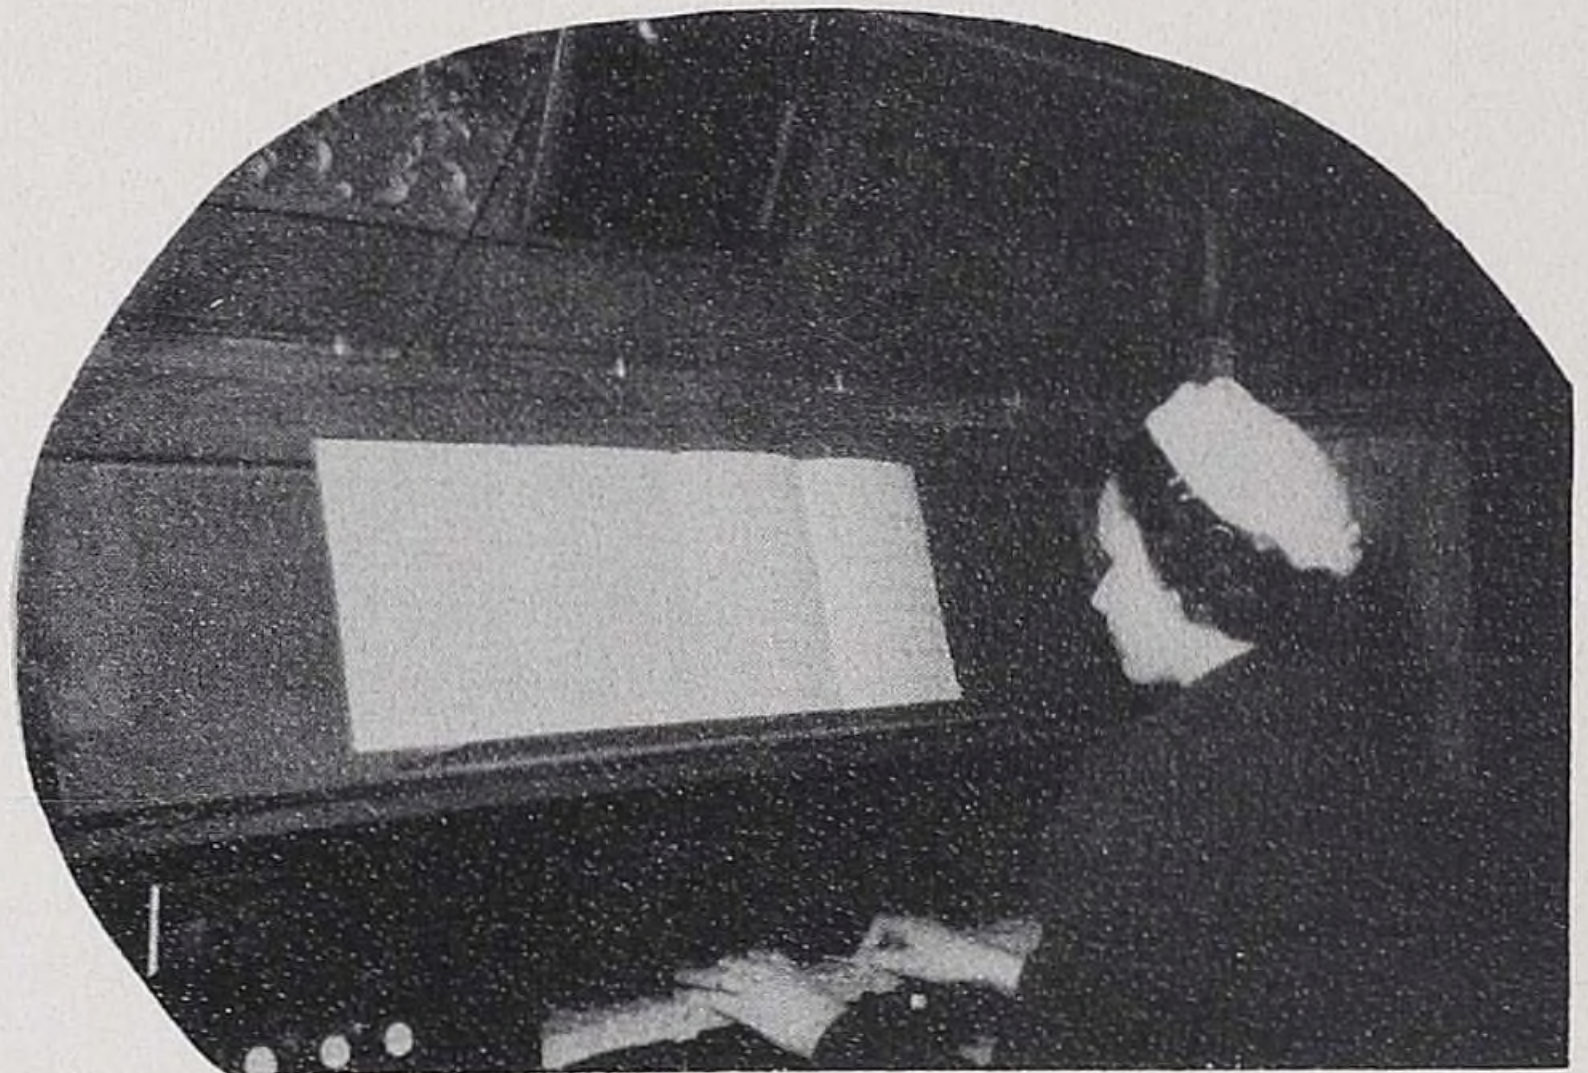

Juniors and seniors take their turn at singing High Mass on Sundays. Those who can be recognized are, front row: Mary Grace Gudenkauf, second row: Jean Ann Madden, Patricia Madden, Alberta Sunneberg, Araline Wichman, third row: Dorothy Lorson, Jeannie Kongs, Janice Koelzer Bill Lueb, and Mary Jane Wempe. Diane Mealy, junior, has been faithful organist for three years.

Sophomores and freshmen sing praises to God on the second Sundays of the months. In the front row are: Alice Mae Grollmes, Marie Gudenkauf, Ona Jean Woltkamp, Gladys Mae Burdick, Marilyn Rochel, and Jerry Haverkamp.

"Exercising sacred power," Father James says the last gospel.

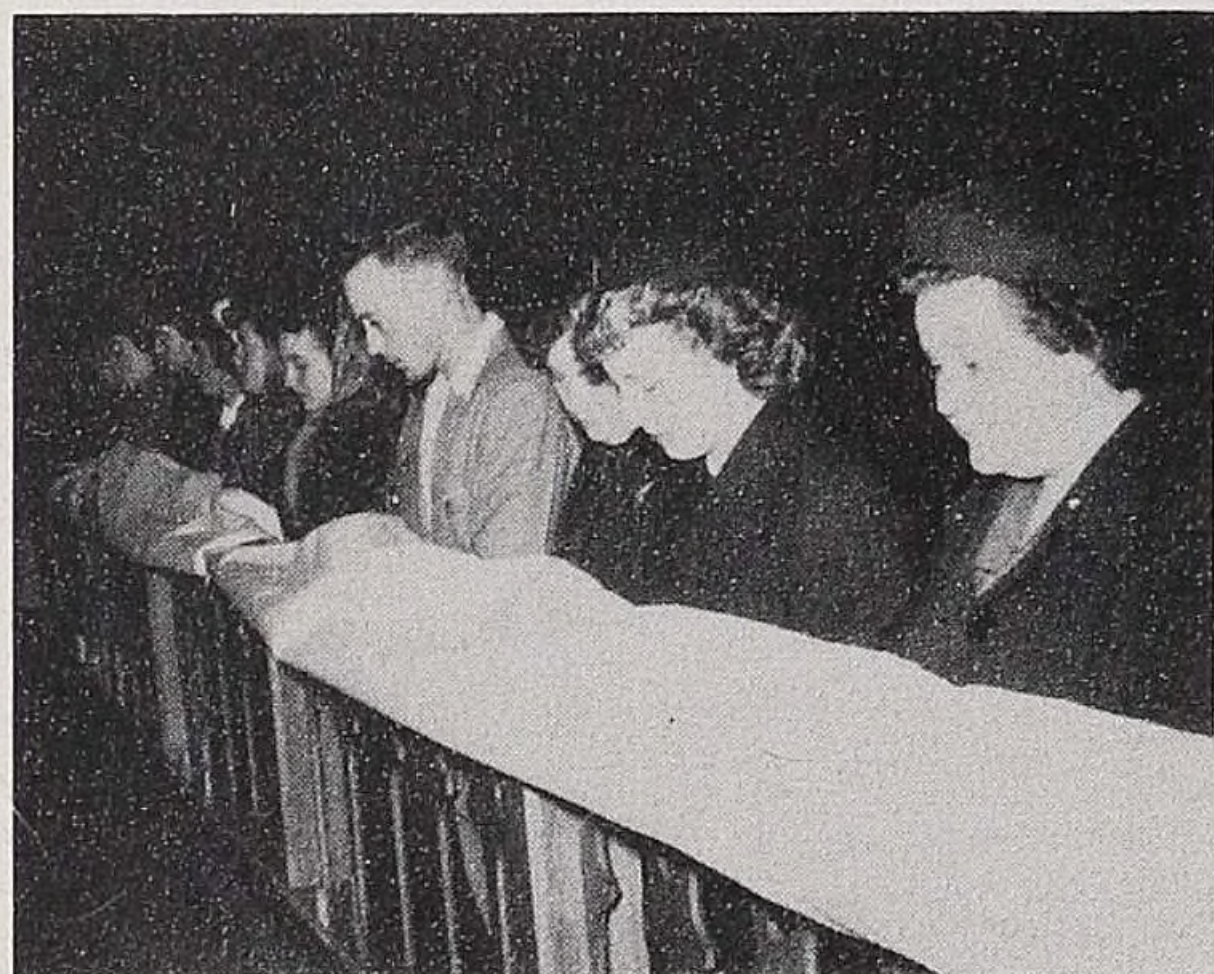

Seeking the Kingdom of God

Sentas an "instrument of holiness," Father Edmund instructs and inspires students by his sermons.

Realizing that "the faithful are nourished and grow strong at the same table," Trojans try to receive Holy Communion at Sunday Mass. Nearest the camera are: Mary Lou Lueb, Elda Phillips, Margaret Lueb, Kenneth Altenhofen, and Margy Henry.

Preparing for Benediction are Aloysius Robke and Bill Lueb, two of the junior boys.

Holiness Begins With Christ

Standing in line for confession before First Friday are: Joan Heideman, Jean Ann Madden and John McGreevy.

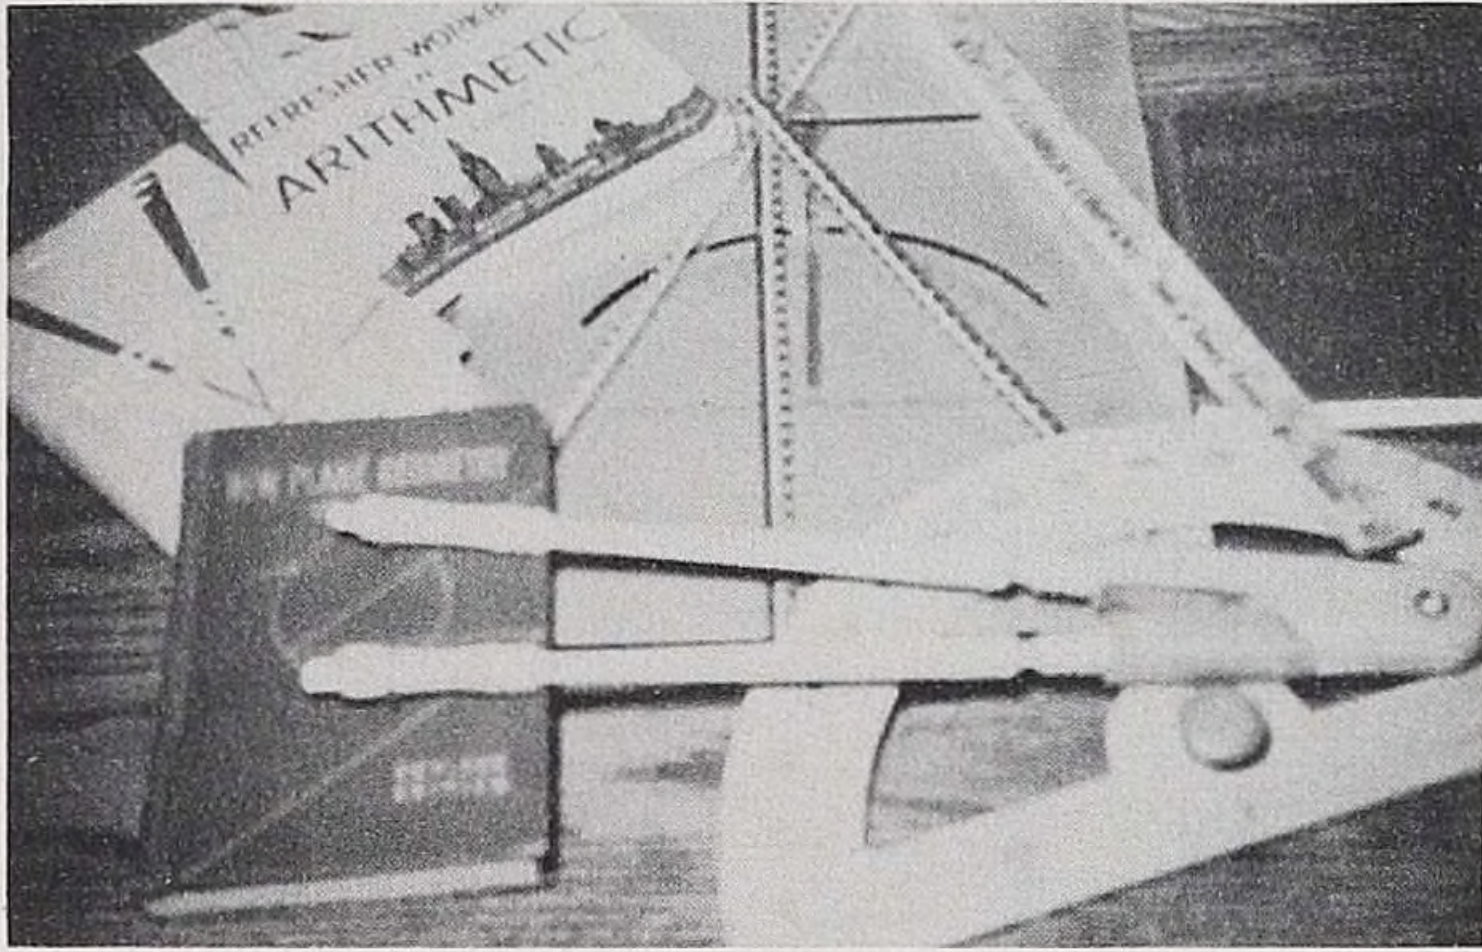

Each class at Sts. Peter and Paul begins with a prayer. Jane Koelzer, Jerry Honeyman, Jerry Huerter, Jack Luebbe, Paul Shaugnessy, Donald Huerter, Mary Jane Wempe, Bill Lueb, and Jerry Winkler, are the juniors who can be recognized.

Two of the four boys of the senior class who are servers are shown here at the foot of the altar. They are Al Boeding and Kenneth Altenhofen.

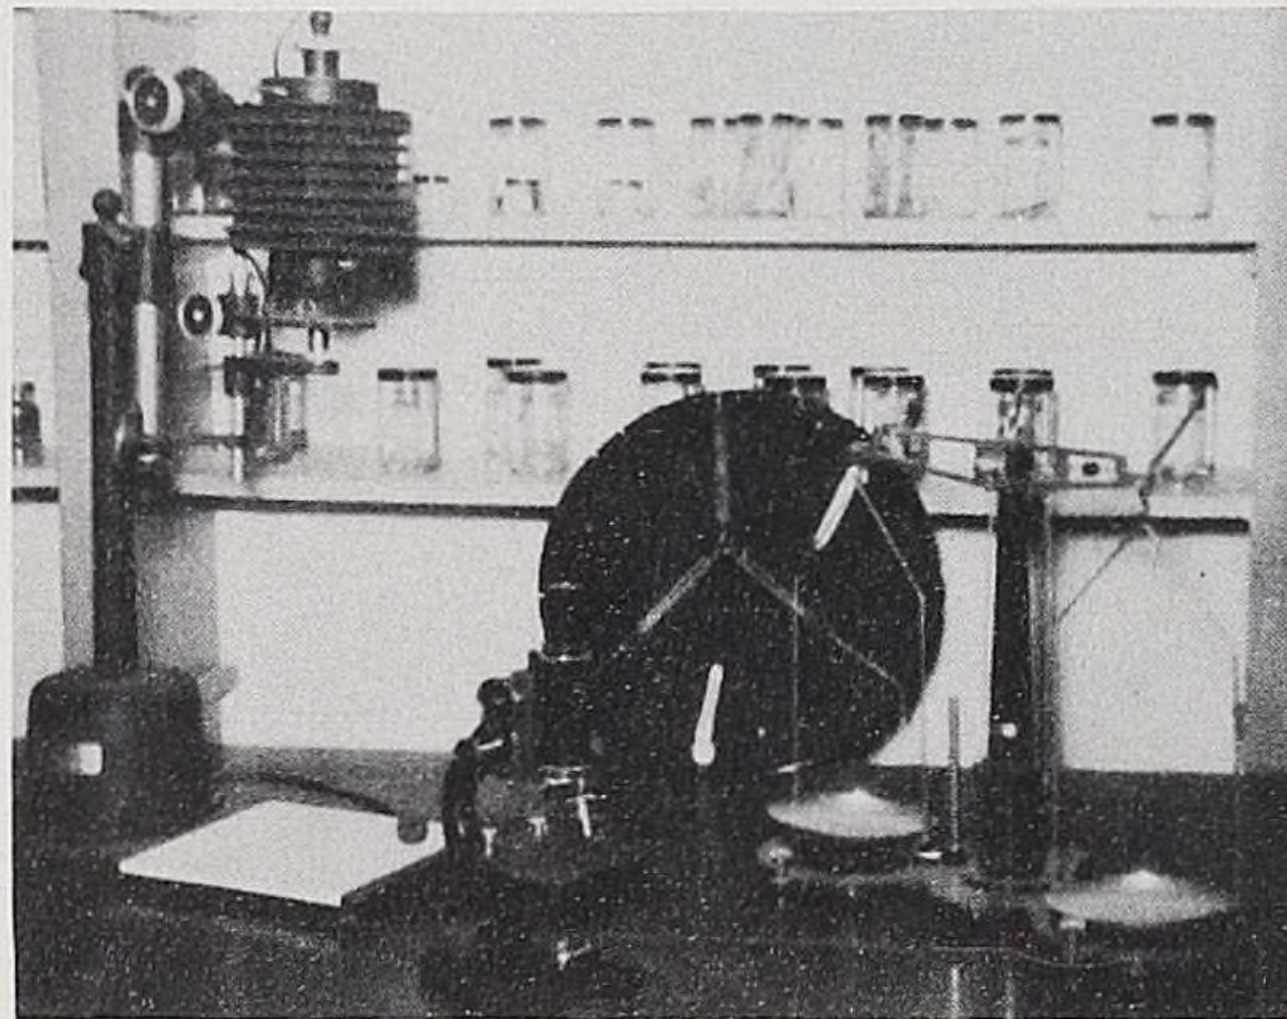

Father Michael imparts his blessing to Art Tangeman, football captain. Others about to receive the blessing are: Clarence Burdiak, Eugene Lackey, Lyle Strathman, Daniel Henry, and Jack Luebbe. Before each game the boys attend Mass, receive Holy Communion, and Father's blessing after Mass.

"And all work in mutual collaboration for their common comfort and for the more perfect building up of the whole Body."

Holiday

Climb aboard a butterfly

Carl Johnson and his orchestra furnished the music for the prom which the class of '51 proudly presented to last year's seniors.

Exquisite butterflies, soft dreamy music, the rustle of pastel colored formals made up the dreamer's holiday which was enjoyed by juniors, seniors, and alumni. Memories of this gala occasion are fondly placed among the treasures of high school days..

Trojan Staff Dedicates Book

Bernard Floersch, president of the senior class and editor of the yearbook, called the class to order, Oct. 10, for discussion on the annual. The class agreed to dedicate this year's annual to Sts. Peter and Paul, for whom the church and school are named. A committee of four, consisting of Mary Grace Gudenkauf, Barbara Koehler, Al. Boeding and Bernard Floersch, was chosen to select a suitable theme.

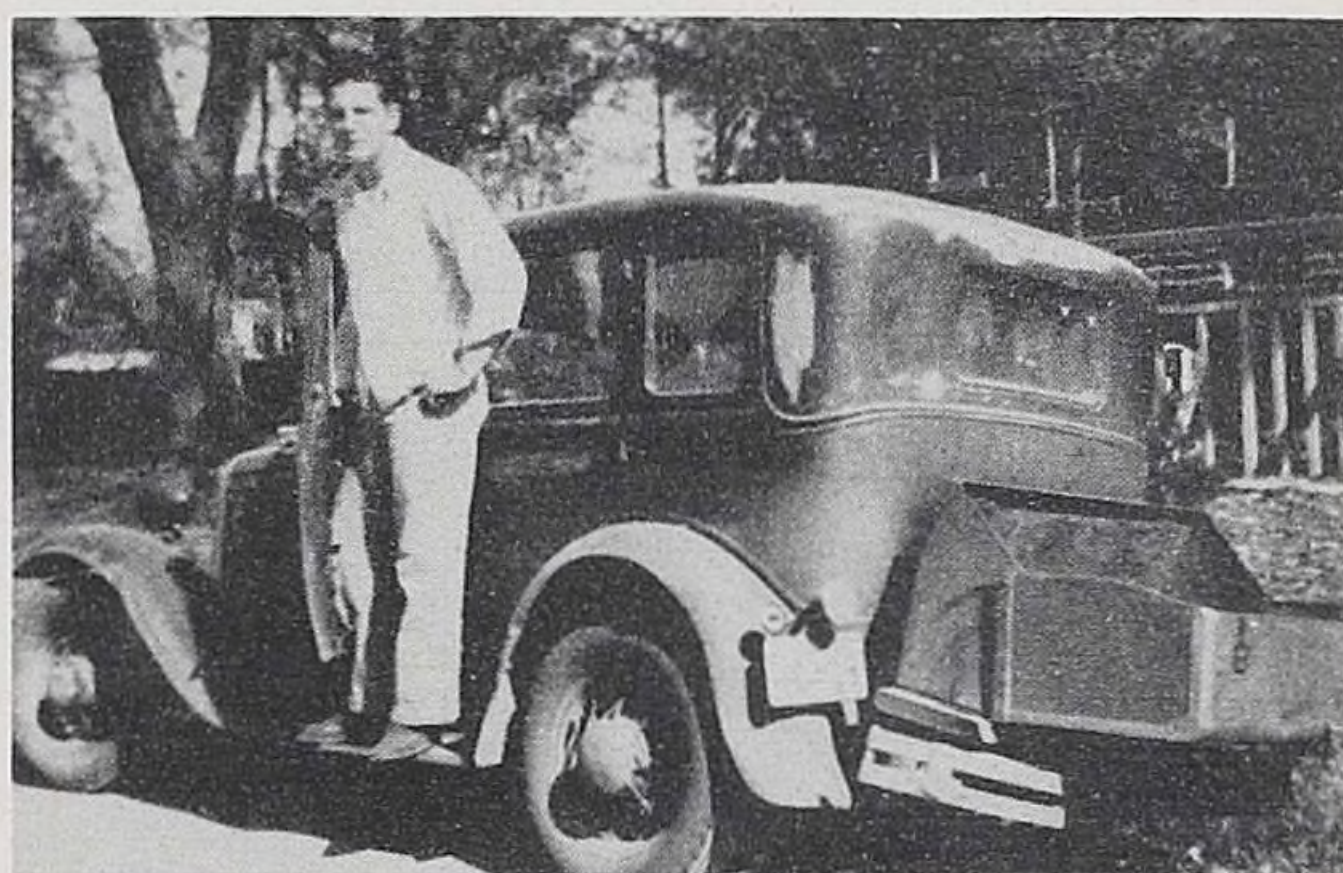

Other members of this year's staff are Margy Henry, associate editor; Laverne Lierz, senior editor; Rita Sack and Grace Dultmeier, assistants; Mary Grace Gudenkauf, Dorothy O'Toole and Donald Buser, junior editors; Lola Woltkamp, Joan Heideman and Leo Crevier, sophomore editors; Araline Wichman and Barbara Koehler, freshman editors; Arlen Henry and Al. Boeding, staff artists; Mary Ann Kussman, Margaret Lueb, Mary Lou Lueb, Jean Ann Madden and Eugene Lackey, scholastic editors; Art Tangeman, Kenneth Altenhofen and Clarence Burdick, sports editors; Evelyne Strathman, Kenny Conley and Norma Becker, religion editors; Eleanor Gress, Teresa Henry, George Gress, Rita Kramer and Walter Rottinghaus, business managers; and Marlene Haug, Alberta Sunneburg, Elda Mae Phillips, Linus Haverkamp and Dorothy O'Toole, activities.

Photography will be taken care of by Mr. Bob Vardy, professional photographer of the Strathman Studio; Mary Ann Engelken and Evelyne Strathman, seniors; and Bob Winterscheidt, junior. Mr. Vardy will not only take pictures but will assist the amateurs with their photography.
